Attention and Perception

Vision Lab (Dr. Alejandro Lleras and Dr. Simona Buetti)
http://www.psychology.illinois.edu/people/alleras
http://www.psychology.illinois.edu/people/buetti

Recruiting 5 students for the fall semester.  5-6 hours/week.

Research focuses on understanding fundamental mechanisms in vision and attention, broadly construed, as well as the impact of emotional information on cognitive processing.

http://internal.psychology.illinois.edu/~alleras/

If interested, contact Gavin Ng, jng17@illinois.edu

Clinical/Community

Emotion and Psychopathology – Dr. Howard Berenbaum
http://www.psychology.illinois.edu/people/hberenba

Recruiting a few students for fall semester

Research focuses on the complex and multi-determined aspects of psychopathy and the role of emotional processes.

If interested, contact Nate Ekland, eckland2@illinois.edu.

Cognitive

Language Production Lab (Dr. Gary Dell)
http://www.psychology.illinois.edu/people/gdell

3 credit hour minimum for all projects

Research focuses on how language production sits within the cognitive system, how it interacts with our abilities to precise, attend, learn, and remember.

Current Projects http://langprod.psychology.illinois.edu/projects/

If interested, go to this website http://langprod.psychology.illinois.edu, put your cursor on "Contact Us, then click on the "Join Our Lab" tab.

CONNECT Lab (Dr. Lily Sadaghiani)
http://www.psychology.illinois.edu/people/isahaky

Recruiting 10-15 students (volunteer or PSYC 290) who can commit to 9 hours per week; students will be supervising neuro scans - 3-4 hours at a time.

1st semester - will teach students how to conduct scans; 2nd semester - will allow students to branch out to begin looking at areas of interest.

Memory and Forgetting in Context Lab - http://labs.psychology.illinois.edu/CMFLab/

To apply - send CV to Sepideh Sadaghiani at connectlab@illinois.edu Developmental

Infant Cognition Lab (Dr. Renee Baillargeon)
http://www.psychology.illinois.edu/people/rbaillar

No position for the fall semester. Recruiting for the spring semester. (Minimum 3 credits)

Research focuses on early conceptual development in four core domains: physical, psychological, biological, and socio-moral reasoning.

If interested, contact Jacqueline Aldridge danowitz@illinois.edu
Lab website: http://internal.psychology.illinois.edu/infantlab/

Language Acquisition Lab (Dr. Cynthia Fisher)
http://www.psychology.illinois.edu/people/clfishe

Recruiting for 1 position for fall semester. Must be available Tues. thru Thurs. 3:30-6:30 (3 credit hours).

Research focuses on how infants and children learn to speak and understand their native language.

Lab website: http://labs.psychology.illinois.edu/lalab/index.html

If interested, please copy these questions http://labs.psychology.illinois.edu/lalab/application.html with your responses into an email message, and send to lalab@illinois.edu

Center for Parent-Child Studies (Dr. Eva Pomerantz)
http://www.psychology.illinois.edu/people/pomerntz

Research focuses on parent-teacher conference interactions (studying audio recordings of parent-teacher conferences) and math skills development (longitudinal study with 1st/2nd graders over 2-year period); Looking for students who are interested in continuing to do PSYC 494 in the lab.

To apply - contact Samantha Shah- sjshah@illinois.edu for the math skills study or Diana Oh (doh11@illinois.edu) for the parent-teacher study

Family Studies Lab (Dr. Karen Rudolph)
http://www.psychology.illinois.edu/people/krudolph

Research focuses on the study of adolescent girls ages 15-17, analyzing adolescent depression, neuroscience/brain, peer victimization, and mental health.

Potential opportunities for RA's include assisting in data collection, creating study materials, and entering data/running analyses in SPSS.

If interested or want to learn more, please email Haley Skymba at hskymba2@illinois.edu.

Social/Personality

Personality and Cognitive Lab (Dr. Daniel Briley)
http://www.psychology.illinois.edu/people/dabriley

Recruiting at least 3 students for the fall semester

Research focuses on why people act the way they do; how to predict behaviors that have not been observed; and are personalities constant over time?
No lab work  Literature review and meta-analysis for 5-9 hours/week. Develop critical reading skills.

Social Action Lab (Dr. Dolores Albarracin)
http://www.psychology.illinois.edu/people/dalbarra

Research focuses on diet, conspiracy theories, persuasion and buying products, etc.)

Recruiting students to do traditional lab work as well as students interested in reading and coding articles or twitter data for meta-analyses. 9 hours/week for 2 semesters

Apply at http://tinyurl.com/sal2017appl
E-mail: socialactionlab@gmail.com

Culture and Social Behavior Lab (Dr. Dov Cohen)
http://www.psychology.illinois.edu/people/dovcohen

Research focuses on the interaction of people, culture, and situations with understanding both individual differences and cultural differences.

Currently looking for 10-15 students to take 2-3 credit hours of PSYC 290 (6-9 hours/week in lab). Volunteers accepted.

If interested, go to http://labs.psychology.illinois.edu/CSBlab/ to learn more about our lab or submit an application online. If you have any questions, email them to Faith Shin, fdshin2@illinois.edu

Social/Personality & Diversity Science

Political Ideology and Groups (PIG) Lab (Dr. Chadly Stern)
http://www.psychology.illinois.edu/diversity/science/  - (scroll to Chadly Stern entry)

Recruiting 1-2 students for the fall semester

Research focuses on how the motivations of liberals and conservatives influence their perception of the social world. Examine question related to criminal justice, stereotyping, prejudices, and social justice, with a strong focus on topics concerning race, gender, and the LGBT community.

If interested, contact socialpiglab@gmail.com